

What's wrong with OXO cubes

For generations people have crumbled their OXO cubes into casseroles all around country and haven't given it a second thought.

Thanks to West Yorkshire, the nation is in a quandary after he suggested the 'correct' way to crush your stock is to do it inside it's foil wrapper, once flattened out the cube crumbled inside.

There has already been a social media backlash. Writing on community page mums advice on Facebook, Kasie Riley said: 'I feel like my whole life's been lie. All those crumbly messes I could of avoided.' Her post appeared to touch a nerve on Facebook, garnering more than 41,000 shares and 30,000 likes in just 22 hours.

Anita Savage wrote: 'what's all the fuss about? Crumble it in, or out. The OXO aren't going to knock on your door.'

The blogger who originally revealed the technique was identified as Mr Williamson, who offered a step-by-step picture guide on how to open the cube. He added that his technique meant it was half a stock cube and keep the rest for later.
